

A Compendium of Short Nautical Stories – Vol 1

By Geoff Walker

The Sounds, Sights and Smells of Asia

Quotes to Remember: “He was a sailor, a dreamer, a thinker, a speculative philosopher...or, as his wife would have it, a romantic idiot” – Unknown scribe

and

“Any man who would be fully employed should procure a ship or woman, for no two things on this earth produce more trouble if not handled properly” - Plautus: ca 254-184 BCE

(A copy available electronically, upon request)

Index

The Captain's Lot – Jingle

A Tow to Remember – Short Story

Hong Kong Odyssey - Jingle

Master on the Fly – Short Story

The Demise of a Ship - Jingle

My Recollections of Old Klong Toei – Short Story

Australia Fair – Jingle

Romancing the 8 Red Dragons – Short Story

Yau Ma Tei - Jingle

An Asian Feeder at Work – Short Story

Strike Eight Bells - Jingle

Upstream to Kopi – Short Story

The Tropics – Jingle

The last “Samboat” under the Red Ensign – Short Story

Good Joss - Jingle

Hong Kong Dustbins of the South China Sea - Short Story

My Ultra-Light - Jingle

Scandinavians of the China Seas during the 1960-70s – Short Story

An Elusive Korean Goddess - Jingle

A Hong Kong Shipping Magnate – A Tribute to Manners Navigation – Short Story

An Okpo Cascade – Short Story

Feeding the Demolition Yards of Asia – Short Story

End